- Provide medically approved suitable duties (time limited and where reasonably able) to the injured or ill worker as a means of preparing for a return to their normal job.
- Ensure that workers are informed of their rights and responsibilities, are involved in all decisions/actions related to their rehabilitation and assured that confidentiality will be maintained.
- Provide delivery of appropriate information and training to all personnel involved in rehabilitation practices and procedures in line with designated responsibilities.
- Prevent injury and illness through maintaining a safe and healthy working environment and an effective WHS Management System.
- Consult with workers, and unions if applicable, to ensure effectiveness of RTW Plans to ensure their welfare is maintained at all times.
- Ensure that participation in a RTW Plan will not result in the discrimination of an injured worker.

It is the responsibility of Managers to ensure injured or ill workers are provided with prompt and appropriate workplace rehabilitation. The development and management of workplace rehabilitation programs is overseen by Robert Walters' WHS Advisor.

This policy forms an integral part of the Robert Walters' WHS Management System. These provisions are reviewed regularly in line with audit schedules, corporate changes and where alternations in legislation occur.
